MIDD FALLS BEFORE GREEN AND GOLD

U. V. M. "Rooters" Here To Witness Game

Pitchers Are Poorly Supported—And Errors Costly To Midd

After a lapse of a year due to the war, the University of Vermont and Middlebury resumed hostilities on the baseball diamond, Saturday. U. V. M. went back to Burlington with their third straight victory of the season and the first game of the series with Midd safely tucked away under their belt.

The game was witnessed by one of the largest crowds that has ever attended a contest in Middlebury. Vermont brought a delegation of about 250 or more men and a large number of their fair co-eds. These people together with the Junior Week visitors brought back a real semblance of prewar rivalry.

The game while interesting throughout was featured mainly by the work of the opposing slabmen. Both Hulihan and McCormick twirled prettily but the support accorded them was loose, each team being charged with seven misplays. The Midd errors, however, came at more inopportune times, as far as the Blue and White was concerned and the Burlington players profited accordingly.

Hamilton, the first man to face Hulihan, struck out, Mead took care of Marsh's slow grounder and Berry was unable to solve Hulihan's delivery and retired to the bench via the strikeout route.

In Midd's half of the first inning, McCormick retired Hinchey and Ross on strikes and Lavin was thrown out at first by Hamilton.

U. V. M. broke the ice in the second inning and sent the first run of the game over the platter. Bowman received a free ticket to first and Smith attempted to sacrifice but popped to Myers. Palmer whiffed but Bowman took second on a short passed ball and scored on Burns' single to right field. Tryon walked but McCormick hit a short fly which Lavin easily grabbed.

Hulihan took three healthy swings at the ball and then went back to the bench, Myers made a bid for a hit over second, but Smith here contributed the fielding feature of the game and caught the ball. Although he stumbled and fell he clung tightly to the spheroid and Myers was robbed of a hit. Mead hit an easy roller to McCormick who tossed him out at first.

In Vermont's half of the third Hamilton was thrown out by Ross but Marsh waited patiently and was rewarded with a pass to the initial sack. Berry sacrificed but Hulihan proved himself equal to the task and whiffed Bowman to the delight of the Midd rooters. In Midd's half at bat the men went out in one, two, three order.

Vermont cornered the game in the fourth by scoring three times. Hulihan became a bit unsteady in this frame and walked Smith, who took on second while Ross was retiring Palmer at first. Burns fell a victim to "Ike's" delivery and chances for a Vermont tally grew dim indeed. Hulihan, however, couldn't locate the plate for Tryon and then Smith made a clean steal of third and McCormick connected with one of Hulihan's curves for a single over second. Parker came in on the run for the ball but fumbled. He

JUNIOR PLAY ENDS MIDD'S HOLIDAY

Excellent Interpretation of Parts By Cast

The Performance May Be Repeated In Town Hall

The Junior Week festivities came to a fitting close Saturday evening with the successful presentation of "A Scrap of Paper." The play, which was given under the direction of Professor Burrage and Mrs. Lawrence, was one of the best that has ever been given at Middlebury.

William Huggard as Prosper Couramont, the leading man, entered into his part with the greatest spirit and gave an unusually finished performance. This is particularly worthy of note as he took the role when the illness of J. P. Kasper compelled his withdrawal, and Huggard had but a short time to work into the part. This was also true of Hollis Cooley, who played the Baron De La Glaciere. William McMaster, as Brisemouche, furnished the "laughs" of the play by his witty presentation of the naturalist, and C. W. Parker, who was Anatole, his ward, was also particularly good. The parts of Baptiste and Francois, the servants, were taken by A. G. Miesse.

In the women's parts, the leading role was very skillfully portrayed by Buena Anderson, who was Suzanne de Ruseville, the clever and managing godmother. The young wife, Louise De La Glaciere, was played by Ruth Cambridge whose acting of a difficult part was pleasing. Florence Millard was Mathilde, the young sister, and she made a very charming and vivacious ingenue. The role of Mademoiselle Zenobie, Anatole's guardian, was taken by Marie Henrichon in a most spirited manner. Madine Rogers, as Madame Du Pont, the housekeeper, and Marion Mullings who played the maid Pauline also deserve commendation.

The Play committee, who helped to make possible the successful production of "A Scrap of Paper," consisted of Harry Jenne, chairman; G. H. Woodward, Philip Aines, Stewart Ross, Elsa Holstrom, Emily Millard and Florence Millard. It is probable that the performance will be repeated for the townspeople within a couple of weeks at the Town Hall.

COMMENCEMENT PLANS

Now that the mill of regular college work has us in its grind again after the excitement of Junior Week, it is natural to look with some degree of anticipation toward the final festivities of the college year.

President Thomas is meeting the general desire for a big celebration in June with plans for a Victory Commencement, which ought to be one of the best in the history of the college. He is proposing a great rally of alumni and former students, and is especially desirous that every son of Middlebury who has worn the khaki or the blue in the service of his country should bring his uniform and his "pep" to college for commencement week. Brigadier-General Stephen Foote has already accepted an invitation to be present and a general big time is promised. This is a great opportunity to show what Middlebury has done to help win the war and it ought not to be neglected by any who can take advantage of it.

MIDDLEBURY WINS TRACK MEET FROM TUFTS

Middlebury's track team ushered in a promising season last Friday afternoon when two records were broken in its first successful track meet of the year against Tufts. The latter institution was represented by a well-balanced team, and the outcome of the meet was not certain until the last event was over.

The first record to be broken was the one made in 1916 by "Bill" Brewster '18, when he threw the discus 104 ft. 2 inches. Potratz '22 threw the discus for a distance of 111 ft. 8 inches, bettering Brewster's record by 7 ft. 6 inches. Hebard '19, jumped 22 ft. 1 inch in the event which put Midd in the van, the broad jump. His jump breaks the record made by Hollister '17, in 1916, when he jumped 21 ft. 5 1-2 inches.

The largest individual point scorers were Blair and Fitts, for Tufts, and Jones for Middlebury, with 20, 18 1-4, and 15 (points each) respectively. The score of the meet was Middlebury 64 1-2, and Tufts 61 1-2.

Summary:

100 yd. dash: First, Blair, Tufts; second, Farnum, Midd; third, Fitts, Tufts. Time: 11 seconds.

1 mile run: First, Jones, second, Miske, Midd; third, Littlefield, Tufts. Time: 5 min. 5 2-5 seconds.

440 yd. dash: First, Blair, second, Caffrey, third, Brackett, Tufts. Time: 56 3-5 seconds.

120 yd. hurdles: First, Fitts, Tufts; second, Howe, third, Thomas, Midd. Time: 18 3-56 seconds.

220 yd. dash: First, Blair, second, Robart, Tufts; third, Robinson, Midd. Time: 25 2-5 seconds.

2 mile run: First, Jones, second, Miske, Midd; third, Davis, Tufts. Time: 11 minutes 5 seconds.

220 yd. hurdles: First, Blair, Tufts; second, Robinson, Midd; third, Fitts, Tufts. Time: 28 45 seconds.

880 yds. run: First, Jones, Midd, second, Brackett, third, Caffrey, Tufts. Time: 2 minutes 12 seconds.

Pole vault: First and second, Chute, Cahoon, Tufts; third, Tatro, Midd. Height: 7 ft. 6 inches. (No jump necessary.)

Shot put: First, Vaughn, Tufts second, Tatro, third, Canty, Midd. Distance: 33 ft. 2 inches.

HAVE YOU THOUGHT THESE OVER?

If You Have Not, Begin Today On Them

If You Have, Do It Some More And Tell Us Your Views

In The Campuses of April 16, 23 and 30 were published respectively the Proposed New Constitutions for the Athletic Council, the Kaleidoscope Board, and the General Constitution for the Undergraduate Associations and the Musical Associations of the college. The object in advocating the adoption, perhaps in revised form, of these several constitutions, is evident from the constitutions themselves. In their present form they represent the careful, constructive efforts of a thoroughly representative committee, the members of which have tried to provide for a basis of managing our various student activities in such a way that the student body as a whole may have at all times full and immediate power to remedy what it seriously regards as unsatisfactory. These constitutions have been presented through The Campus in order to give full opportunity for every man to know what was proposed and to give his free criticisms and suggestions.

Now within a very short time a meeting of all the men will be called, at which a one hundred per cent attendance is desired, when these constitutions will be discussed, and some action regarding them will be taken. It certainly is up to each individual man to read and study these proposed instruments, and to make up his mind just what he thinks about them. Make a note of the changes you would like to see made, and when the meeting is called feel perfectly free to offer your suggestions. They will be gladly and cordially received, even though the body as a whole may not, perhaps, desire to adopt all of them.

This meeting will be called in the near future. Get prepared for it. If you do, you will be glad and if you don't, you may be sorry later. It's up to you. Read those proposed constitutions, and be prepared to "speak right out in meetin'."

P. E. Pitkin.

R. O. T. C. CAMPS

Captain Ferguson has received a memorandum from the War Department which gives further light regarding the R. O. T. C. camps which are to be established. The camps will open on Saturday, June 21, and close on Saturday, Aug. 2, 1919. The Infantry Camp for the first and second districts combined (which includes Middlebury) will be at Camp Devens. Col. Guy G. Palmer will be the Camp Commander instead of Col. F. L. S. Price, as was before reported. Mileage at the rate of 3 1-2 cents per mile will be paid for the number of miles from the school to the R. O. T. C. camp and in returning for the number of miles from the R. O. T. C. camp to home, provided the number of miles from camp to home does not exceed the number of miles from school to camp.

Membership to this camp is open to all Middlebury men taking the course and they should not lose the opportunity of attending it, as the course will be of a progressive nature and will be an invaluable aid to the men when

"Stick To It"

From the pleasures of Junior Week we turn with renewed energy to the pursuit of our work. As we think back over the enjoyment of the days just past, we may experience not only pleasure but we may draw real benefit from the lesson set before us. In the various athletic events we all noted the skill and endurance exhibited by the participants. A certain technique of long training was apparent in their efforts yet in some cases this intellectual backing failed them. They found the use of their brains to save their bodies insufficient to win their cause. Did they give up? No! They kept doggedly on and suddenly found themselves drawing upon reserve energy the existence of which they never before realized.

Occasionally we meet with situations too difficult for our technical training and we tamely conclude we cannot accomplish our purpose. Let us profit by the example of our athletes and "stick to it" using our reserve forces to gain our end. If all of us exert a little more energy and "pep" the improvement in Midd's college spirit will be not only gratifying but amazing.

"Let's Get To Work"

It's been worth while, hasn't it? Even though at times it seemed as if the weather man weren't with us, we came through pretty well after all. Games, Prom, Play, Glee Club exceeded our expectations if such could be. The Inter-Scholastic Meet proved such a successful innovation that it should be a feature of Junior Weeks to come. Perhaps the best thing of all was to have so many of our old friends back with us again, more loyal than ever to Middlebury. And now there's one last lap before June, in which we should all get in our very best work. With our eyes on the goal of our Victory commencement, we must not slacken our pace in the slightest degree. "We've had a good vacation! Now let's get to work!"

THE GLEE CLUB CONCERT A SUCCESS

The College Glee Club was greeted Thursday evening by a full house, attracted doubtless by the melody that has been heard so frequently this spring floating across campus from the band room in such tantalizing fragments, and by the fact that the Glee Club has not presented its annual program at Middlebury for two years.

There was not a hitch in the performance, which was full of originalty and 'pep", and rendered in an excellent manner. The quality of the vocal talent in the college was especially evident in the glee-singing of double and single quartettes and in the solo work of Swan '21.

The Banjo-Mandolin Club and the Jazz Orchestra under the direction of Brackett '20 were two features of the evening, the popular selections of which, were enthusiastically received by the audience. Huggard '20 gave two readings and there was an unexpected addition to the program in the selections read by Mr. Cronin of Middlebury.

A pleasant bit of variety was introduced into the evening's entertainment by Dexter Meade '19 who held the amused attention of his audience and proved his right to his first name by his clever magic.

The concert closed with a medley of college songs and a long Middlebury yell on the end of it."

What Others Think

OPEN TO ALL

This department aims to be an absolutely impersonal current schedule of campus opinion upon subjects of intense interest. Communications intended for publication must be signed by the author but the name will be withheld upon request.

Dear Editor:

It is hardly possible for one who loves Middlebury College and cherishes her best traditions to refrain from making some comment upon the un-Middlebury like character of the Freshmen P-rade of last week. The custom of the P-rade is deep-rooted in our college life, and perfectly defensible in principle; but some of the particular examples of Sophomore brilliancy(?) displayed last Friday must appear utterly indefensible to anyone not possessed of a distorted sense of humor.

The two-fold object of this annual parade has been to entertain the student-body and townspeople and to humble the freshmen into a greater degree of respect for the upper-classmen. Neither object can scarcely have been accomplished by vulgarisms of a sort that made one by-stander recommend "a faculty board of censorship". An annual repetition of this sort of thing can have but one result, the lowering of Middlebury's ideals and the consequent inevitable injury of her reputation; and that would be a tragedy for which none of us would like to be responsible. Let's keep our P-rade—and our standards. Let's be funny—but not common.

O. B. Decent.

Dear Editor:

Since the place to crab college organizations and functions is in The Campus in order that everyone may see and know the sentiments of the majority, I take the liberty of voicing the general disapproval of the Freshman P-rade. To a large number of the students and some of the faculty this event was not only disappointing but it was positively disgusting. There is no lack of appreciation of truly funny things but evidently the sophomore men have no discriminating sense of the finer humor as distinguished from a coarse and cheap copy. The remainder of the Junior Week Program, though possibly not perfect showed at least a carefully thought out plan. The P-rade exhibited, rather, a hurried and careless preparation. Let us see to it that this is the last event of this sort to take place under the auspices of Midd.

I. M. Peeved.

Dear Editor:

The baseball manager recently appealed to the men of the college to work on the diamond. A few have responded, but the number is yet too small to do real work. The writer appeals to all the men who have real Middlebury spirit, who wish to see Middlebury at the fore all the time, to devote a few spare hours once in a while toward making the diamond ideal for baseball. Besides the interest which we will be getting from such work we will inspire the men of the team with an added feeling of confidence, a feeling which can be imparted in no other way.

The baseball season is on and it is up to us to see that it is carried through and ended as successfully as it was started. As Middlebury men, we must do our utmost. The question is before each one of us. Are we going to do our duty and help our team to victory, or are we going to make it pave a path for itself? Upon your answer will turn the success of the 1919 baseball season.

A. Suggestion.

ROMAN ORIGINS IN THE SUMMER SESSION

The old methods of history teaching are gone, not to return. The schoolmasters of a generation ago quizzed their classes searchingly and minutely on tables of dates, wars and battles, changing politics, court intrigues, daily events in Roman, English, or American life, forgetting usually to relate these tendencies or occurrences to each other. Particularly, they did not stop to consider the inter-relations of all of these events to those of other countries, or other stretches of history precedent or contemporaneous. In present day methods the importance of pointing out the marvelous complexity and dependence of one set of political or social developments upon another is a commonplace among the maxims of good history teaching, and no longer are collections of isolated facts, hurled at the one trying to grasp an idea of the world's progress, interesting though they may be in themselves, without careful search for the undercurrents flowing in from all the national streams, sometimes evident, sometimes to be perceived only by careful search of movement upon movement and tendency upon tendency.

The course in the Summer Session called Roman Origins is an attempt to discover, in the general history of the last thousand years, and, particularly, in the history of our own republic and civilization, the influence of the thousand years of the Roman domination of the world. This touch upon us in Language, Law, Religion, Philosophy, Art, Architecture, Engineering, and other departments of our national life is greater than one, without investigation, would suppose possible to exist. The course, then, is not one in Roman History. No text-books in that subject are necessary. But it is rather a study of interesting historical relations—and especially in origins—of many of our own tendencies and customs.

Library reference books, charts, photographs, and lantern slides are used in illustration of the successive topics. See the printed outline of the course for further particulars.

WHERE IS HE?

The War Service Committee is now having from ten to twenty letters returned each week from the A. P. O.'s on the other side because numbers of men have either been sent back home to be discharged, or have changed camps. It has occurred in many cases that our men have been so overjoyed to be allowed to embark for America and enter on the steps preliminary to discharge that they have entirely forgotten to notify the Committee that they no longer need The Campus and the home letters. In some instances as many as five or six papers or letters have accumulated at some station abroad and have been returned to us before we were aware that the man in question had gone from his place.

If you know, with considerable certainty, of the change of address of some one of our men, will you not at once send us notification? This request is particularly made of those who are at a distance from Middlebury and who for this reason are not so familiar with the "letters returned" so frequently written after the names on the roster posted in the lower Chapel.

Myron R. Sanford
Chairman of Committee.

HOW TO HELP THE COLLEGE PAPER

Hand out all the knocks you can think of.—Borrow your friend's paper and tell the manager to cut off your subscription. Never hand it back without saying, "thanks, pretty punk piece of business."—Always knock when the editor's back is turned. Never praise anything—That's sure to make his head swell.

R. H. S. GETS FIRST PLACE IN INTERSCHOLASTIC MEET

Scoring 77 1-3 points out of the total of 134 won in the meet, Rutland High School easily carried away the honors in the First Interscholastic Track Meet held here Friday and Saturday of last week. Woodstock High and Keene, (N. H.) High came next in order with 20 points each while St. Johnsbury Academy was a low fourth with a total of 12 1-3 points. Rutland had by far the largest team entered and her men had no difficulty in placing in every event. In the 220-yard dash and quarter mile run Rutland men took all three places. The winning of second place in the meet by Woodstock High marks their first formal recognition in interscholastic track circles in the state. Though entered in several previous meets her teams have never before placed.

The feature of the meet was the individual work of Capt. Bellerose of Rutland. He was entered in eight diffierent events in addition to the half-mile relay race and captured first place in each, winning 40 points for his team. A born athlete, he is equally at ease on the track and in the field events. By careful training under the supervision of one of Vermont's ablest track coaches he has developed into a wonderful combination of ability in both branches of the sport which has gained for him state-wide fame.

The trials for certain of the events were held Friday morning but not until the following morning at 9 o'clock were the final heats commenced. All of the track events with the one exception of the 100-yard dash were slowed up considerably by a strong south wind which hit the runners on the west turn. The 100 and 220-yard dashes were easily won by Bellerose, the former in the fast time of 10 4-5 seconds. Second and third places in the first race went to Maccarty and Ellis of Woodstock while in the 220 Hunt and Chapleau, both of Rutland, took second and third respectively. Again in the quarter mile Hunt, Ryan, and Chapleau took all honors for Rutland by winning three places.

One of the best of the morning was the one-mile in which Mason of Keene carried off first honors followed closely by Dahlgren of Rutland and Lougee of St. Johnsbury. Mason led the entire field nearly all of the four laps and retained just enough sprint for the finish to cross the tape ahead of the Rutland runner. The tables were turned in the two-mile by Dahlgren who fought it out at the finish with St. Cyr of Woodstock who in turn was pressed closely by Jangraw, also of Rutland, the Keene man not placing.

Both the 120 and 220-yard hurdles were won by Bellerose. In the first race there were but three men entered but only the Rutland captain and Newell of Keene placed as Peck who came in third disqualified. Second and third places in the 220 hurdles were taken by Newell and Ellis respectively, the latter of Woodstock.

Collins and St. Cyr, both Woodstock men, showed up well in the weight events. The former took first place in the discus while St. Cyr got away with premier honors in the hammer throw. Second and third in the discus went to Brohel and Wright of Rutland and St. Johnsbury respectively, while in the hammer throw Lamphere of St. Johnsbury took second with Brohel third.

Bellerose's farthest distance in the shot put was 34 feet., 2 inches. Lamphere took second place in this event with Barton of Keene third. The Rutland athlete also took first places in both jumps and the pole vault. In the broad jump three of Middlebury's four points were made by Baldwin who took second place with Collins third. In the high jump Peck, Lamphere and Aiken, the latter of Newport were tied for third place with Newell second. Hunt and Livingstone finished in the order named for the last two places in the pole vault.

The last event, a half-mile relay race was won by Rutland High with St. Johnsbury second and Middlebury third. After the meet there followed a formal presentation of the prizes by Dean Wiley.

The shield for the team winning the highest number of points became the property of Rutland High School as did the relay trophy. Capt. Bellerose of Rutland was also awarded the loving cup for the individual high point winner.

Following is the order in which the schools finished in the meet:

Rutland	77 1-3
Keene High School	20
Woodstock High School	20
St. Johnsbury Academy	12 1-3
Middlebury High School	4
Newport High School	1-3

Awarding of the Prizes

THE ANNUAL JUNIOR PROM

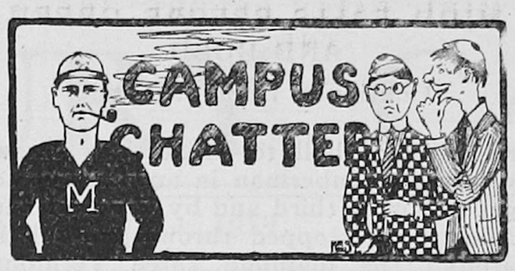
The Junior Prom, which took the form of a victory dance, was held Friday evening in the McCullough Gymnasium. The hall was attractively decorated with flags, bunting, banners, and skins. Two dances were reserved for the sub-freshmen guests. The music, which was furnished by Dyson's Jazz Orchestra from New Britain, Conn., proved to be the chief attraction of the evening. Pleasing refreshments were served.

The patrons and patronesses were President and Mrs. John M. Thomas, Dr. and Mrs. Edward D. Collins, Professor and Mrs. Vernon C. Harrington, Professor and Mrs. Perley C. Voter, Professor and Mrs. Luther I. Bonney, Miss Eleanor S. Ross and Mrs. Maude Mason.

Professor Mills of the Biology department will speak at the next meeting of the Alchemist Club.

The track team will be well represented at the Eastern Intercollegiate Track Meet at Springfield, Mass., on May 10. It is expected that a good showing will be made by all the track men.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Cecile Thomas '17 to Russell Avery Smith of New York.



The seniors made their first appearance in caps and gowns Sunday, and are to wear them every day from now on.

Madeline Gaylor '22 was taken to the Mary Fletcher hospital in Burlington, Friday evening, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis. At latest reports she was doing well.

Rev. Alden H. Clark, recent missionary to India, was a guest of the college for a few days last week. He was here as a representative of the American Board of Foreign Missions and spoke to the women and men of the college on Sunday afternoon and evening, respectively, on the work of the missionary in foreign lands.

A special meeting of the Board of Trustees of Middlebury College has been called for Monday, May 12, at 2:00 p. m. at the office of James N. Gifford of New York City. Arrangements are to be made for next year's faculty especially since some of the professors leave for their vacations next year and their places must be supplied. Plans for Commencement will also be discussed.

President Thomas conducted the chapel services last Sunday, taking as his subject the closing words of Daniel Webster's famous speech, "liberty and union, now and forever, one and inseparable". He showed that while we as a nation have fostered the ideal of liberty we have neglected the ideal of union. He pointed out the danger that lies in unfair religious, racial and class distinctions, and made a plea for true Americanism, which means unity in all these things.

An enjoyable tea was given by the senior girls to the members of the women's college and the Faculty, Wednesday afternoon from four to six, in Pearsons social hall. The hall was prettily decorated with festoons of ground pine, and banked hemlock, and dozens of red and white carnations gave a pleasing note of color. Those in the receiving line were Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Bryant, Mrs. Mills, Dorothy Nash and Laura Fales. Mrs. Howard and Mrs. Swett poured, and a musical program was given by several of the girls.

Junior Week guests included Ruth Baldwin ex'20, Adele Jones '22, Charlotte Marsh '17, Alice Crossland ex'21, Fannie Gill '15, Edna Gill Hannah '18, and Hazel Hazeltine '16, all former Middlebury students. Other visitors were Mrs. Burton Swan of Glens Falls, N. Y., Mrs. Kirkpatrick of Leominster, Mass., Helena Putnam of Springfield, Olga Smith of Swanton, Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson of Windsor, Phyllis Murdock of Worcester, Mass., Eva Risdon of Rutland, Ione Fellows of Derby, Betty Furber of Brookline, Mass., Mrs. Woodward and Miss Laura Woodward of Camden, N. J., and Fanny Hulett.

The American Physical Society held its ninety-seventh regular meeting in Washington, D. C., at the Bureau of Standards on Friday and Saturday, April 25th and 26th, at which Professor Bryant, of the College Physics Department, was present.

MIDD NINE DEFEATS THE MASSACHUSETTS TEAM

The baseball team inaugurated a promising season for Middlebury Thursday afternoon, when it defeated the fast aggregation which represents the University of Massachusetts, by the score of 3 to 0. The game gave the men a chance to find themselves, and indicates that Midd has a good team, in spite of handicaps due to lack of practice because of bad weather, etc., for Coach Keefe had no veterans around whom he could build a team.

The game started with a rush when Hulihan struck out the first three batsmen who faced him. The Midd men did nothing during the first inning, Jenne flying out to the catcher; Hinchey being thrown out at first, and Lavin flying out to the short stop. The next inning the Massachusetts men were again turned back. Two runs were sent across the plate for Midd. Myers hit safely through, Mead thru third, and Ross was safe when the catcher missed the third strike. Timberman flied out to the left fielder who, by a quick return, caught Myers at the plate. Elmer then hit safely thru third sending in Mead and Ross. Hulihan got on safely and Jenne walked. Hinchey was thrown out by the pitcher at first.

In the third inning Hulihan struck out the first two men who faced him and tagged out the third.

For Midd, Lavin hit safely, Myers sacrificed pitcher to first, Mead sacrificed shortstop to third, Ross walked and stole second, and Timberman struck out for the third man out. In the fourth the Mass. men were thrown out in rapid succession. Middlebury secured its third and last run when Elmer hit thru short stop and advanced to third when Hulihan knocked the ball for two-bases. Jenne flied to the third baseman, and Hinchey sacrificed second to first, Elmer scoring. Hulihan was stranded on third when Lavin was thrown out second to first. After the fourth inning the Massachusetts men played steadier and from then on the batsmen who faced the pitchers were put out in a snappy manner.

relayed the ball to Mead who threw wildly to Timberman in an attempt to get Tryon at third and by the time the Midd boys stopped throwing the ball around the diamond three Vermont runs had passed across the plate. Hamilton ended the agony by flying out to Ross. With two dead in Midd's half of the fourth, Lavin got a life on Marsh's boot and Hulihan got an infield hit. Lavin tallied when Marsh made an inglorious muff of Myers's pop fly but Hulihan was caught off second by McCormick and Midd's scoring stopped.

In the fifth with men on second and third, Hulihan got himself out of the hole by whiffing both Smith and Palmer, Midd's former Nemesis. The big Green team scored their fifth and last run in the eighth frame. Burns led off with a single and Tryon sacrificed him to second where he stole third and home on a sacrifice fly.

Middlebury managed to get men on the bases fairly often during the last innings of the game but the punch necessary to bring them home was lacking and McCormick twirled excellently in the pinches. A fast double play, Hamilton to Smith to Bowman snuffed out a Midd rally in the sixth but a similar play in which Ross, Mead and Myers figured put the quietus on a Vermont bid in the seventh.

That both teams were suffering from a lack of practice was plainly visible to the spectators. Vermont seems to have a powerful ball club and on the whole outplayed their more youthful Blue and White rivals. With some good weather conditions, however, in the next few weeks both teams should be playing in mid-season form by the time the second game of the series at Burlington is played on May 30.

THE FRESHMAN P-RADE

The annual Freshman P-Rade, the event marking the yearly termination of freshman subjections, occurred last Friday afternoon immediately preceding the Middlebury-Tufts track meet.

Originality on the part of the sophomores was everywhere evident in the costumes and characters which were represented in the event. The number of participants though necessarily limited by the barring of freshmen athletes was over 30 and easily equalled that of past years.

The line of march led through the business section where the P-Rade was witnessed by a large gathering of visitors and townspeople, and terminated at the athletic field where it was disbanded.

they have completed their college careers. The War Department promises extreme care in safeguarding the morals and health of the men while at the camp.

Neither the parents nor the school authorities lose any of their ordinary control over the students, excepting that after a student has once entered upon the course and agreed to take it, the two years course must be completed as a pre-requisite for graduation. The student is not enlisted in the service and enters into no contract with the Government other than to pursue the course of instruction prescribed. The proposed military training has proven most successful in inculcating the habit of attention. When this habit is acquired it goes a long way toward equipping the individual "with remarkable powers of concentration, gives him a strong memory and the ability to properly estimate the situation confronting him".

The R. O. T. C. camp will assist in the physical development of students so that when they are dismissed from the camp they will be in condition to start in immediately with football practice.
